Rise of kingdoms commander guide minamoto

Rarity: Legendary Japan | Cavalry Warlord Kamakura | Peacekeeping | SkillThon Minamoto is not Yoshitsune great? The cheapest legendary commander for early play - only $0.99 Extremely versatile is good for early, mid- and even late play. Minamoto no Yoshitsune's SkillsSkillTypeDescriptionUpgradesKyohachiryu Active Deals directly damages the target and has a 50% chance of tasking additional goal damage every second within the next 2 seconds. Direct damage factor600 / 800 / 1000 / 1200 / 1400Additional damage200 / 280 / 360 / 480 / 600That is the main bread and butter Minamoto skill. This is where most of his outgoing damage comes from. It causes direct damage to one target, up to 2,600 losses in total in 2 seconds. Because of the 75% chance in PvP, you tend to get this proc a lot because the battles are not over in an instant, so it's a very valuable pro. Play Growth Kingdoms on PC to fully enjoy the game! It's a crazy skill that makes Minamoto no Yoshitsune great for even free players! Obviously, if you're going to get Minamoto, don't unlock it past the first skill until you get that skill at level 5.SkillTypeDescriptionUpgradesTrial in Kurama-dera Passive Increase The speed of the cavalry's march units and attack. Cavalry March Speed Bonus3% / 4.5% / 6% / 8% / 10% Cavalry Attack Bonus10% / 12% / 14% / 16% / 20% Very standard skill, but also very nice. A 10% speed mark that's always good for the cavalry and then another 20% bonus attack, which is pretty crazy. Ottoman civilization is definitely good to have if your main focus is cavalry nuking. Defense and health can help, but you really want to maximize what you are good at in this game! So if you're going to the Cavalry, you want to attack power-ups because it directly affects the bonus damage skill that you have in the game. SkillTypeDescriptionUpgrades Master of passive Kendo increases the damage done to barbarians by troops led by this commander. Bonus damage to barbarians10% / 20% / 30% / 40% / 50%50% damage to barbarians is actually very huge. So good for forts, barbarians, Keorak, bosses and all PvE content. We can see that Minamoto seems to be very good at both PvP and PvE.SkillTypeDescriptionUpgradesPortovar passive troops normal attack has a 10% chance of increasing the damage taken by the target over the next 3 seconds. The effect can only be called once every 5 seconds. Damage increased by 10% / 15% / 20% / 25% / 30%If you can get skills that will be called either from the primary or secondary commander in pairs. Another 30 bonuses for damage (including both skill and troop damage) is a crazy bonus. The damage is causing the target, it's not just on the basis of your commander, so if you've attacked a target with multiple armies and that skill is triggered, then you have a few skills propped up on target, it stacks with everything else that hits the target. Super effective on the battlefield.10 percent seems low, but you tend to struggle for quite some time, so it's wakes entirely Kiwami Expertise Deals Direct Loss (Damage Factor 1400) to goal and has a 75% chance of additional damage (Factor damage 600) to goal every second for the next 2 seconds. [wips table] Basically it increases the chance of first-time high from 50% to 75%, that's a lot! Play Growth Kingdoms on PC to fully enjoy the game! I definitely recommend getting this commander maxed out if you want to basically focus on it (or you don't have enough resources to focus on anyone else)How should I use Minamoto? You can use it in any cavalry dispatch. – He is great, as the primary commander, or a secondary commander. – Great for nuking a single purpose and raiding enemies of agriculture resources. You can also use it in mixed troop shipments. Both the primary and secondary positions are great. During an early game and in the middle of the game, when you don't have a great archer commander, you can use it as well. However, it is better to use him as a secondary commander for archer commander. &Level Advanced PriorityKeep's advanced training * 1.1 despite the fact that you max out his first skill. If you don't want to spend a lot of money on it, just bring it down to 4 years* not important now. If you're willing to spend some money on it, upgrade it to 2 max with * 2st skill and get it to 4*. If you don't plan to use it in the future as the primary commander, you can stop wasting XP on it. Minamoto no Yoshitsune Talent TreeBest General open field Talent Tree for MinamotoThis tree talent is pretty well optimized. It's great for attacking other players of other cities, other targets, and Ark players Osiris on the open field. You have almost every March speed here. I use this build with Saladin, but it also works well with almost other commanders. Note the talent of Latent Power, it increases the damage of additional damage. Since Saladin has no additional damage, I only give latent power 1 point. But if your secondary commander has a lot of extra damage, such as Pelaghius, Frederick, Osman, etc., you want to maximize that talent. So this is the best overall build that can be used in an open field, rather than leveling with commanders who have a lot of additional damage. Nuking Minamoto Talent TreeThe is a hardcore, complete talent tree for Minamoto.We still have an Emblazoned shield here that provides reduced damage to skill. It's like a must-have talent for any PvP build you have on the battlefield for a cavalry commander. We have latent power, the most noodling damage in the game. Connect it with Frederick, Pelaghius, Osman or any commander who has a crazy extra damage factor bonus. Peacekeeping MinamotoIf you want to use Minamoto no Yoshitsune as a peacekeeping commander or if you want its as the main commander of the second dispatch, this talent tree is very worth trying. This maximizes the most outgoing damage possible for neutral units, while providing great march speed and the highest damage to skill.ParingPvP ParingPvP commanders PairingsGenghis Khan: Best commander in the game for the Cavalry. He got the biggest nuclear damage in the game for the cavalry commander. It's golden paring. You can use either as the primary commander. It doesn't matter much. Cao Cao: Excellent replacement for Chingis Khan if you don't have one. It's a quality paring that will never go away. Saladin: He would be a great choice when we are in the open field. He also makes troops tankier because of his crowd control skills, which reduce enemy healing and reduce the damage to the skill you take. Pelaghius: They synergize together so well. It gives you more rage and some healing effects. It synergizes very well with the latent power skill of the skill tree mentioned above. It is recommended to use it before you max out your Cao Cao or Chingis Khan. YSG: He's always a good pairing for anyone as a secondary commander. With the exception of his 2nd skill, others work very well with any type of nuking commander. You will never be disappointed. Alexander: He has a lot of great skills for infantry units. His expertise really synergizes well with Minamoto's fourth skill, so there's a lot of damage reduction and increased damage. They can deal with seriously significant damage. Osman: Another great cheap option for the secondary slot. He is by far the best epic nuker in the game and much stronger when combined with Minamoto due to his additional damage factors. If you only plan to use it as a secondary, then stop leveling it. If it is primary, continue to level as far as your goals require. So until I do, the Rhory legend was kind enough to give me permission to use his schemes. Legend Renee Minamoto Full Nuker BuildLegend Rhory Minamoto Cavalry BuildLegend Rhory Minamoto Nuker + Alignment BuildBeware Commander Advicel when it comes to comparing commanders, approach any advice with a healthy dose of skepticism. This game is particularly difficult to evaluate commanders. There are two main reasons for this: the frantic cost of maximum commanders. Basic combat formulas include so many variables, and many descriptions of skills are unclear how they fit into it. In other games where you can experience more commanders first hand, there may be some real value in anecdotal experiences. When you can only support a few commanders, all you have to go is how they interact with other armies of different forces, along with watching other people's armies in the same way. This is the birthplace of a lot of misinformation. This does not mean that there are no smart people with advice out there. Just that much of what you hear will be nothing more than speculation. How I rate the reliability of comparisons (approach with your newfound skepticism): Testing is done in properly controlled conditionsMake with some serious math. Testing is done against barbarians or other players not at identical levels of research, etc. anecdotal impressions. Hearsay Guesswork.I tried to base a lot of what I do from number 2 on this list. I spent a lot of time combing each commander while creating my commander-level calculator list. I too made a lot of errors of judgement as well though. So sprinkle my words with the same skepticism (but maybe I get extra points for reliability if you feel generous). I hope you've got some value out of this guide. My analysis will never be perfect, so please leave your thoughts in the comments section below. With sufficient discussion, it will be a valuable resource in itself. Take the score commander below lightly. They are intended only as a crude benchmark. How points were calculatedThink points are based on the overall power scores in the calculator of the commander level list (which has its limitations). However, instead of scoring them only with their skills, their overall scores rank relative to each other. Here they are placed on a scale of 0 to 10. On this scale, 0 is 0, and 10 is the highest score of the commander's contribution in this list of levels. But it's not all linear. To keep the scores comparable, I had to prevent the highest commanders in some level lists from distorting it. To do this, from points from 0 to 9 linear, and then the outlets are compressed in 9 to 10 on their own linear scale. Then there was also the question of how to compare the legendary with other commanders, as they are much harder to max out. To stop them from unfairly overshadowing epics more than they should, legendary commanders on average: Score given = (2 x max legendary score + 1 x 5/11/1 legendary score) / 3So, if you have maxed legendary, they will rank higher in relation to the scores given here for epics. But as an alternative, if they are 5/11/1 or slightly higher, then epics will rate higher than they are here. For a better image, check the original scores in the commander level list calculator. Download Growth Kingdoms for PC/MACMy Experience Using BlueStacksI should recognize much of my experience using BlueStacks has been with other games. I tried a few other emulators, but BlueStacks always gave me the best results. As an iPhone user, Rise of Kingdoms thwarted my attempts to play on BlueStacks. But in my desperation to get back on BlueStacks I just made the switch to Android. So I'll be able to show you all my favorite uses soon. As far as the Kingdom's productivity growth goes, I've heard mixed reports of multiple emulators. There seems to be a common problem with in-game chat. Once opened, it will crash the game. BlueStacks seems to have fixed this glitch for the most part in one of its latest updates. However, if you like me and basically use Discord, that's not really a problem.
